Children in the city will have a rewarding experience as the Chimanlal Mangaldas library has included a section for the young with 7,000 books. Introduced by the Gujarati Sahitya Parishad (GSP), the library has been equipped with a video facility and a rare collection of classic CDs. Educational scientific games from Vikram Sarabhai Centre has also been made available to attract more children to the library.

A string of plans are underway like showing a film on the last Friday of the month, another documentary film, 'Vani Gujarati', in October and many others related to science and environment.

Rajendra Patel, treasurer of Gujarati Sahitya Parishad said, "The library will help children get acquainted to Gujarati literature and parents accompanying their children will also get the opportunity to indulge in reading which is necessary."

Bharti Dave, publication secretary of GSP said, "We have plans for digitalisation of the library for which we have already received a sum of Rs2 lakh and of Rs1,80,000 for data entry of the library."
